

ABSTRACT

A plant growing apparatus, the apparatus comprising a sidewall with an outer surface and an inner surface and having a plurality of tiers where each descending tier has a smaller diameter than the tier immediately above,
5 an anti-circling channel formed in the sidewall wherein the channel protrudes through the sidewall forming an indenture in the inner surface of the sidewall and a channel on the outer surface of the sidewall, a plurality of slots formed therethrough the sidewall, and a detachable base that is connected to the sidewall.